ODISHA THROUGH THE AGES: RECONSTRUCTING SOCIO-CUTURAL HISTORY

DATE: 07TH MARCH, 2026

Organized by
P.G. DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY
GOVERNMENT WOMEN'S COLLEGE,
BALANGIR, ODISHA
(Affiliated to Rajendra University, Balangir, Odisha)

About the Seminar:

Odisha has a long and linear history. The continuation of history from prehistoric period to post-modern period is of immense importance from socio-cultural point of view. Generally people believe history as an account of political narrative and paid less attention to other historical aspects such as religion, society, economy, culture and so on. As a result of which such fields remain unexplored or less discussed from historical perspective. A state or a region not only got its identity from its political history, rather its rich cultural heritage, traditions and customs gives a special identity. Therefore reconstructing the socio-cultural history of Odisha is essential to move beyond a political narrative to understand the evolution of its unique cultural identity.

Another important issue with the history of Odisha in academics (particularly in prescribed history syllabus) is that, the early historiography of Odisha focused on coastal areas and considered rest of Odisha as periphery. Before 1936, the state was fragmented into different divisions like Koshala, Odra, Utkala, Kongoda etc. in ancient and early medieval period and under Bengal, Madras and Central Province in colonial period which was probably a great constraint in the socio-cultural prosperity of the state. Further various tribes and groups of people live in the state with their specific language and cultural tradition since time immemorial. The Socio-Cultural Amalgamation, Acculturation, Sanskritisation, Westernisation etc. that took place over the time greatly affected the life and living of the people of Odisha. There is a need to look into detail, the various aspects of life, culture and tradition in that context.

New research needs to shift towards a more inclusive approach that highlights the specific and varied cultural development in different regions of the state. Reconstruction of history requires using modern scientific techniques and approaches such as in-depth studies of existing epigraphic, numismatic, literary sources, oral tradition and other relevant sources. This endeavour (seminar) is driven by the need to fill the historical gaps to write and rewrite the socio-cultural history of Odisha with a new perspective and using new archaeological and literary evidence.

Objective of the Seminar:

- To rewrite the socio-cultural history of Odisha with more inclusive approach.
- To fill the missing gap in the socio- cultural studies.
- To promote micro research and case study on regional history.
- To document the tangible and intangible heritage of Odisha.
- To explore and utilise new archaeological, literary evidence and other sources of history.
- To create awareness among students and scholars about the region's rich historical legacy and its contribution to Indian civilisation
